Disinvestment: Rosneft keen to bid for BPCL

BPCL OPERATES four refineries in Mumbai, Kochi (Kerala), Bina (Madhya Pradesh) and Numaligarh (Assam) with a combined capacity of 38.3 million tonne per annum, which is 15% of India's total refining capacity of 249.4 million tonne. After removing three million tonne of the capacity of the Numaligarh refinery, which will be sold to a public sector unit, the new buyer will get 35.3 million tonne of refining capacity. BPCL owns 15,177 petrol pumps and 6,011 LPG distributor agencies in the country. Besides, it has 51 liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) bottling plants. The company distributed 21% of petroleum products consumed in the country by volume as of March last year and has more than a fifth of the 250 aviation fuel stations in the country. The government is keen to get international energy majors such as Saudi Aramco, Total of France and ExxonMobil to operate in the downstream fuel marketing business so as to bring in greater competition. Currently, 95% of retail petrol and diesel sales and near 100% of cooking gas (LPG) and kerosene sales are controlled by the public sector units. As on March 31, BPCL reported cash and cash equivalents of around ₹5,300 crore, against ₹10,900 crore of debt maturing over the next 15 months. Officials said Indian Oil (IOC) signed a term contract to import up to 2 million tonne of Russian grade Urals oil from Rosneft in 2020. This is the first time a state-owned firm has signed a term import deal with Russia as they look to diversify sourcing of oil beyond their traditional suppliers in West Asia. State-run firms have started importing significant volumes from the US as part of this strategy. At current prices, the government stake in BPCL is worth just over ₹53,000 crore. The acquirer will have to make an open offer for buying an additional 26% stake from other shareholders of BPCL. The stake sale is critical for the government to meet its disinvestment target of ₹2.10 lakh crore set for the coming financial year starting April 1. Digital advertising surpasses print to become 2nd largest medium AN INCREASE in spending on digital platforms calls for improved and efficient ways of measuring digital video consumption across devices. Broadcast Audience Research Council of India (BARC India) had floated a unified digital measurement tool - Ekam - in April 2017. But the project is yet to see the light of day. In the meantime, agencies have developed their own tools to measure the outcome and impact of the digital campaigns they run for brands. "We have tools to measure outcomes for performance marketing. That said, there is a lot more to be done about digital measurement from a branding perspective in particular. We need to accept that it is not easy to build such a tool," says Kumar. Industry experts have observed that international behemoths like Google and local platforms have not been able to arrive at a consensus or unified measurement system, stalling progress on the matter. "In the absence of a universal measurement tool, let's try to create the next best possible solution. We are working with partners and platforms themselves to devise solutions that can address the concerns of marketers," adds Kumar. Goyal emphasises on the need for uniform measurement especially because the digital advertising market is a duopoly that should be regulated.
